REMARKS:

Terms of use for Academic Network of University of Opole (ANUO)

General regulations

1. Residents of “Kmicic”, “Niechcic”, “Spójnik”, and “Mrowisko” (re. renovated part) dormitories can connect their personal computers to Academic Network of University of Opole, which will grant them access to the INTERNET. Such computer must be equipped with Ethernet network adapter 10 or 10/100 Mbps and RJ-45 connector.
2. In every room, there are 1 or 2 RJ-45 network sockets and 1 or 2 electrical outlets for separate power grid (230V) used for plugging computer devices only.
3. To not mistake them with electrical outlets for general use, separate power grid outlets are marked red (with the exception of Niechcic dormitory).
4. Plugging in anything but computer devices to separate power grid is forbidden. It might result in severe damaging of computers and other active devices in the network.
5. Active devices of ANUO and structural cabling installed in dormitories are properties of the University.
6. Information Technology Centre (the Administrator of ANUO) is responsible for configuration and maintenance of ANUO.
7. Regulations of ANUO, hereinafter Regulations, is an agreement on the use of computer network, between ANUO administrator and network user, i.e. the resident of a dormitory. Regulations are available in writing at manager’s or consultant’s office, as well as in electronic version at www.centrum.uni.opole.pl and www.askuo.uni.opole.pl.
8. In case of disputes between ANUO user and Information Technology Centre (the Administrator of ANUO), the rights to interpret this Regulations belong to Information Technology Centre.
9. The use of ANUO is free and available in rooms with the higher standard.
10. Network works every day of the week, round the clock, with the exception of periods that are dedicated for network maintenance or repairs.

11. September is a month dedicated for maintenance of network devices and structured cabling of ANUO. Frequent breaks with access to the ANUO and INTERNET may occur during this time.

Connecting to ASKUO Network

1. Only computers owned by dormitory residents can be connected to the network.
2. If a person who is not a dormitory resident (a visitor) connects their computer to ASKUO network, the person who allowed this bears the responsibility for it.
3. The number of electric sockets and keystone module installed in a room varies depending on the dormitory. In Kmicic: 1 keystone module and 1 electric socket; in Niechcic, Spójnik, and Mrowisko: 2 keystone modules and two electric sockets.
4. User is obliged to purchase the network elements necessary for connecting the computer to the ASKUO network, i.e. a network interface controller and the Cat5e patch cord (network cable with RJ-45 connectors on both ends, which connects the computer to keystone module).
5. One computer set can be connected to one keystone module and one dedicated electric socket.
6. If there are more computers that need to be connected than keystone modules in the room, use the network switch (SWITCH or HUB). Connect the network switch to the keystone module and the computer to the socket in the network switch (SWITCH or HUB). If it is necessary to connect several computers (computer equipment), use a power strip equipped with a line filter. Students can rent a network switch from Administrator on the rules set by manager but a power strip should be purchased individually in any computer store.
7. Student organizations can get connection to ASKUO network at the request of Student Council approved by Vice-Rector for Academic and Student Affairs.
8. It is prohibited to connect any other network devices that are not computers (i.e. a router, access point, print server, etc.) to the network without the approval of ASKUO Administrator.
9. The computer connected to the network must be functional and properly configured. This applies mainly to the installation of the network interface controller with the drivers and the appropriate configuration of the operating system, internet browser, and network protocols TCP/IP (recommended automatic configuration – DHCP).
10. The TCP/IP configuration for the network interface controller is done automatically (via the DHCP protocol) after connecting the computer to the ASKUO keystone module using a network cable (patch cord).

11. The number of computers that can be connected to the network is limited by technical capabilities and the number of IP addresses assigned to ASKUO.

12. ASKUO Administrator decided on the allocation of IP addresses.

ASKUO Local Administrator

1. Local administrator is appointed for a given academic year by Dormitory board at the beginning of a given academic year. Only one person per academic campus can be appointed.

2. In case of problems with accessing the Internet, the user first asks Local administrator for help.

3. Name, surname, and the place of accommodation of Local administrator are announced on the www.askuo.uni.opole.pl and on notice boards located in the dormitory halls.

10. In case of network failure, ASKUO Administrator guarantees fixing the lack of ASKUO network and the Internet access (unless it is caused by weather or factors dependent on other operators with which ASKUO Administrator is connected) within 24 hours from the time of reporting the failure (from Monday to Friday).

11. If the failure occurs on Saturday or public holidays, it will be fixed within the first working day following.

8. The user is forbidden to take steps to gain unauthorized access to network or computer resources, e.g. impersonating other users, monitoring links, or scanning ports. The user also cannot attempt to use protected resources if he/she does not have appropriate authorization.

9. In justified cases, the user can get a special permission to run a specific server service. This requires the authorization of ASKUO Administrator. In this case, the concerned party should submit an appropriate justified request in writing to ASKUO Administrator. The application will be processed within 3 working days from the date of delivery.

10. The user bears full financial responsibility for the electric sockets and keystone modules entrusted to him.
